Orlagh has now decided to take her music career to the next level as she is becoming one of the top Indie Pop stars of this century. As her extraordinary music escalates with fame it was her decision to go on tour with her newly released album. With this thrilling news, Orlagh is overwhelmed with excitement as she has decided to pair up with one of the most famous stars in the music industry and collaborate and go on tour together with them. Orlagh states “I have never been happier to be in such a good place with my music career and being joined by one of the most incredible stars of the music industry to go on tour with”. With her new tour being planned, this has been a hard decision for Orlagh as she has struggled a lot throughout the years with getting used to the fame. This has not been easy for her. Here is a bit of a back story behind the scenes of fame and how this amazing star became so popular.

Growing up Orlagh lived as an ordinary girl in a small hometown with a strong passion for singing and song writing. Although she kept her music hidden, as she grew she began to perform live gigs in pubs, small festivals, and any opportunity she could get to show off her music. After hours of hard work and small performances she finally got recognized by music producers and was asked to be taken on and was given a record label. This was when her music career started to build. After her first single was released her fame went up. Thousands of people recognised her and were inspired by her music. While her single reached the charts, she thought it was time to create an album. She did her first ever tour with her first album and tickets were sold in hours. Although after her first tour things went downhill.

On top of all the love from her fans Orlagh did get a lot of hate towards her. This was a struggle for her as she wasn't used to it and became famous so quickly there wasn't much time for her once she became so popular and busy. From being so busy on tour and making music she was getting overwhelmed and went into a dark place. She put her music career on hold which her fans were devastated about but for her, personally it helped her massively. From all the support and help from her family and friends one day Orlagh decided to take a turn and get back to her passion. When getting back to what she loved Orlagh stated “Although I was in such a dark place for so long, I couldn't be happier to pick myself up and get back to the one thing I love”. Her fans and family were over the moon and were eager to hear what she had in store for them next. After coming back, Orlagh raised millions of pounds for charities that she loved and supported. Mental health charities were a priority for her to raise money for personally. As Orlagh said “I would never want anyone else to feel the darkness I felt and lose the love they have for their passions. So this is why I am raising money to help the ones in need”. Many, many people were inspired by her incredible work with not only music but raising money for people struggling.

After all this hard work Orlagh got together a new album which has now been released and is going on tour in 2022. Orlagh wants to inspire and promote the Indie Pop genre and show how incredible and unique her music is and inspire the other people out there who's passion is music.
