MegZ, Megan Simonett is a young British singer/songwriter who started her career in 2016 but then shied away from her music career two years later due to battling with mental health. The inspirational artist rose again in 2021 to release her new album to encourage confidence to all people struggling. "I used my past experiences and used them within my songs lyrics. By incorporating those lyrics into my EDM remixes it allowed me to feel closer to them. EDM is usually extremely upbeat but I wanted to show people that even successful people have dark times and that is okay."

At the age of 18, MegZ began posting her remixes on electronic music forums, which went viral on the social media platform Tiktok. She rose to prominence with her first single in 2016 'Without You' then shortly after releasing an album 'Levels' consisting of blend electronic music, receiving positive reviews. It peaked in the top five in more than 10 different countries streaming on popular platforms such as Spotify and Soundcloud, "I am hoping my new album can bring the same enjoyment people experienced with Levels."

The 21 year old artist announced in late 2018 she was retiring from music for the foreseeable future because of her father passing away. With the artist's difficult situation behind her, she motivated herself to return to the studios and release a touching but motivational album consisting of six blended songs, that she wrote during her grieving times. She began to talk about how anxiety impacted her and what she loves doing, "It really affected my confidence, I didn't feel like I could carry on without my dad. But the realization overcame me and I knew I had to get back doing what I loved, EDM." All songs include a catchy beat with a beat drop whilst contrasting with the lyrics that have a hidden meaning behind them. MegZ performed her unreleased album at Lollapalooza festival in Chicago's Grant Park seven days before the release date, resulting in thousands going crazy over her new mixes.
